

Dear Supporter,

Thank you for your interest in contributing to the Light of Justice Program, a core program of the Jesuit Social Research Institute at Loyola University New Orleans.

The Light of Justice Program was founded by Calvin Duncan to assist incarcerated people to overcome barriers that would prevent judges from reviewing the merits of their cases on appeal and post-conviction. Light of Justice also offers incarcerated people education on procedural rules and changes to the law, and assists counsel-substitutes with monitoring their court deadlines and the outcomes of their direct appeals. Calvin Duncan's memoir, The Jailhouse Lawyer, shares his harrowing story and highlights the foundation of our work at the Light of Justice Program.
